Heavy Draught Horses and Five Classes of Live-stock Judged Yesterday at Fall Fair—Competition in Four of Stock Classes Almost Non-Existent

WITH the heaviest list of exhibitors in the sheep and swine sections for some years, and with the heavy horse and cattle divisions well represented in all classes, the annual exhibition stock judging got away to a smooth start yesterday, with five cattle classes and the draught horse section completed.

With only the Clydesdales represented in the heavy horse section, Judge A. McAllister, of Victoria, awarded the stallion championship to Craigie Supreme, owned by Charles C. Gordon, of Charlis, Alta. Craigie Supreme also took the gold medal award of the Clydesdale Horse Association of Canada for the best stallion in the show.

The gold medal for the best mare went to Fanny of Foulwood, also owned by Charles Gordon, when she took the female championship. Reserve stallion award went to Canute of Foulwood, owned by

No Statements of Fair Attendances Are to Be Given

ALTHOUGH the men of the army and navy took full advantage of the opportunity to attend the annual Fall Fair at the Willows yesterday free of charge and the grounds were well filled with a happy throng, it was impossible to estimate the number of people attending the second day of the exhibition.

According to a statement issued by W. H. Mearns, secretary of the fair, figures of daily attendance would not be available for publication henceforth. Mr. Mearns stated that attendance yesterday showed an approximate 20 per cent increase over last year.

Treasures Secure From Any Bomb

LONDON, Sept. 9 (CP).—Officials today said the priceless treasures of two famous but unnamed museums, bombed last night by the Germans, had been moved along with the contents of other galleries to specially constructed repositories in August, 1939.

"There has been no damage to any of them. They are secure from any bomb," officials said.

The same precautions were taken with the contents of scores of private galleries, warehouses and antique shops.

CITY OBSERVES DAY OF PRAYER

Parades and Services Mark Intercession Called by King George

The national day of prayer observed throughout the British Empire Sunday at the request of His Majesty the King was marked in Victoria by special parades and outdoor services, and large congregational attendances at leading city churches.

Special prayers and intercessions were offered at all Protestant churches—Anglican, United, Presbyterian and Baptist, and the Salvation Army and other religious groups also marked the occasion with appropriate services. Sermons throughout were chosen to suit the day.

At St. Andrew's Cathedral special prayers for victory were said at all Masses. All day there was exposition of the Blessed Sacrament, which concluded with the Holy Hour at 7:30 p.m.

At Christ Church Cathedral, in the afternoon, Dean S. H. Elliott preached to a group of Air Raid Precaution units in a special service. Prior to the service, detachments of the army and navy, policemen, firemen, air raid wardens, members of the St. John Ambulance Association, engineers and Red Cross Society paraded from Pandora Avenue to the Cathedral.

MAYOR TAKES SALUTE
Mayor Andrew McGavin, supported by Reeves of municipalities and city aldermen, took the salute as the parade marched along Quadra Street. Captain William Ellis, air raid officer of Victoria, was in charge. Commissioner T. W. S. Parsons, of the Provincial Police, represented Attorney-General Gordon. S. Wismer, under whose department the A.R.P. is now administered, Major Stanley F. Moodie, head of the A.R.P. in British Columbia was also present.

Many people turned out to Beacon Hill Park in the afternoon for a sacred concert by Victoria's oldest male voice choir, the Orion Club. Special prayers were offered by Rev. G. A. Reynolds, president of the Victoria Ministerial Association, and a one-minute silence was observed.

At Work Point Barracks members of the public gathered to take part in the morning drumhead service held under the command of Brigadier C. V. Stockwell, D.S.O., district officer commanding, and conducted by Captain the Rev. Alan Gardiner, with Major the Rev. M. H. Jackson giving the address. The Brigadier took the salute at the march past at the conclusion of the service.

Many Londoners Killed in Nazis' Raids on Sunday

Populace Not Disheartened Although 306 Meet Death From Air Attacks—Heavy Bombs Dealt Reich Give Cheer in Face of Long Bombing of Heart of Empire

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Londoners, in a front line, war city of 8,600,000, dug grimly today into the wreckage and fought the fires started by two nights of Adolf Hitler's fiercest air pounding and, despite warnings of worse to come, cheered reports of heavy blows dealt the Reich.

Fires in every direction, direct hits on air raid shelters, hospitals demolished, reverberating explosions near the Houses of Parliament, crater-pocked streets, some disruption of transportation, dislocation of the dock area, and widespread damage to dwellings and business property in the East End and along the Thames were reported as the result of last night's "marathon" attack of nine hours and forty minutes, longest of the war.

ninety-nine of them on Saturday—against twenty-four British, but all reports for Sunday's fighting were not complete this morning. The toll taken in the Nazi air armada was expected to be considerably higher. The attacks were "severe" and "widespread," the Air Ministry said, but "so far as information is available, it is not anticipated the number of casualties will exceed those of Sunday."

THREE HOSPITALS HIT

Heavy damage was done to many non-military targets, the Ministry added. Mentioned were three hospitals and two museums. Unofficial information was that two world-famous museums had suffered. "Censorship forbade their identification."

"London has once more been the main objective of the enemy and its citizens have met the blind savagery of these latest night attacks with admirable courage and resource," the communiqué said.

Britain's dogged bomber force meanwhile was reported by the Air Ministry to have set fire to a great swath of Germany's port city, Hamburg, in a three-hour-and-fifteen-minute raid last night.

At the same time, authoritative sources declared Hitler's plan of following up the London bombings with an invasion was being systematically broken up by British counter-attacks on his concentrations of barges and boats at French bases across the Channel.

"We waited until they got a nice lot together, then struck," said one source.

SHIP YARDS BOMBED

Describing the raids on Germany, an Air Ministry bulletin said many sticks of bombs struck the Blohm and Voess shipbuilding yards and that two fires were reported close to the mouth of the Elbe Tunnel.

"Undeterred by the storm of anti-aircraft shells, the glaze of searchlight concentrations, patches of thick cloud and much ground haze, the raiders cruised above the great dock area on the banks of the Elbe," said the bulletin.

"Methodically pinpointing their target, they released salvo after salvo of heavy bombs and hundreds of incendiaries. Repeatedly, attacks of heavy bombs were seen to crash across the docks and port installations."

Returning pilots declared they could see the glare of the resulting conflagration in the sky as far away as sixty miles as they headed down the river for home.

The raids on London last night were made by an estimated 150 machines.

FLATS DEMOLISHED

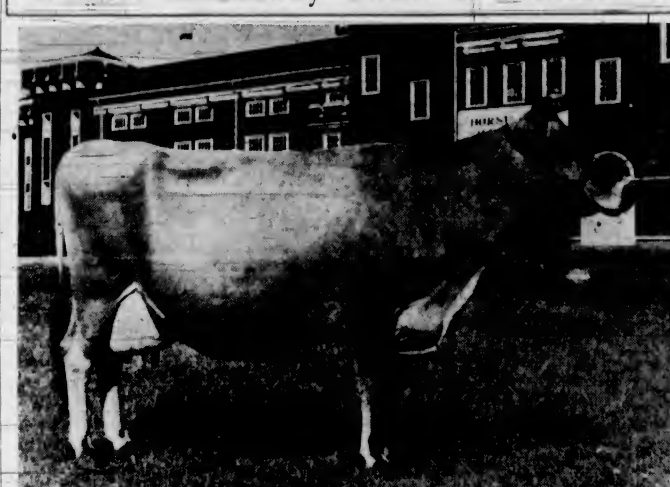

More than fifty persons were believed to have been killed when a huge bomb demolished a whole block of flats in the East London district.

The London press declared unanimously invasion is the direct object of the full-force air war.

An Air Ministry official said September is "undoubtedly a critical month of the war," and added that even if England had four times her force of fighter planes, "it would still be impossible to prevent some of the bombers from reaching the capital."

As the grey dawn ended London's latest night of horror—the last raiders had disappeared shortly before the long alarm was lifted at 5:35.

am—the uncounted dead were still being dug from the wreckage of buildings, and police and air raid wardens searched for delaying explosives.

MANY FIRES STARTED
Fires could be seen in almost every direction from the heart of the city. Stuka dive bombers carried their screaming attack to the centre of London for the first time, plunging close to earth to direct their blasts.

Bombs fell near the Houses of Parliament, Westminster Abbey, and other landmarks. It was stated officially the Parliament Buildings were not hit.

At least two time bomb explosions were reported. One damaged a hospital, where doctors and nurses worked to keep pace with the injured brought in by ambulance crews. Bombs hit three other hospitals, demolishing a wing of one of them.

In addition to the usual incendiary explosives, earth-shaking explosions told that the raiders were using their biggest bombs.

SUCCESSIVE RAIDS
A communiqué by the Air Ministry and Ministry of Home Security said that although the raiders were never over London in great mass flights at any time during the night, they kept coming in "successive relays."

Damage was reported as "widespread." There were many new fires, especially along the banks of the Thames River, again the bulletins for most of the bombings.

Public services were reported temporarily disrupted. Many homes and some mercantile buildings were damaged. Some of the business and public buildings, hit were in the centre of the city.

Heavy explosions shook the Associated Press Building, knocking down a staff member watching the raids and a photographer setting up his camera for a picture.

Liberal and C.C.F. Candidates Officially Nominated In By-Election

Nominations in the Provincial electoral district of Mackenzie were officially acknowledged yesterday by the electoral officer of the province.

The nominations were listed as follows:

Manfred McGeer, contractor, 3612 Inman Avenue, Burnaby, Liberal.

Charles Grant MacNeil, salesman, 1119 Chilco Street, Vancouver, C.C.F.

Polling will follow on September 21 at forty-six polling divisions in the riding. Slightly in excess of 7,000 voters are eligible to vote in the by-election to fill the seat left vacant on the death of John Melvin Bryan, former Liberal member for Mackenzie.

POLICE WARNINGS ARE ISSUED HERE

Chief J. A. McLellan issued a warning to residents yesterday not to leave valuables or money lying around in their homes during the day or night. In repeating the same warning, Chief H. C. F. Reston, Oak Bay police, urged visitors to the fair grounds to be alert for pickpockets.

WAR LOAN HAS GOOD RESPONSE

Victorians Buy Bonds as R.C.A.F. Bomber Fleet And Troops March

While a sinister-looking R.C.A.F. bomber fleet overhead, scaling the clouds throughout the day, eager to purchase the offered bonds and so supply financial ammunition to the national war effort.

Local banking houses and investment dealers were thronged with clients throughout the day, eager to purchase the offered bonds and so supply financial ammunition to the national war effort.

With the Provincial Government leading the way with a subscription of $500,000, the response of Victorians to this second war loan appeal was very satisfactory and every bit as good as the response to the first war loan last January, according to H. W. G. Henderson, Victoria member of the British Columbia regional war loan committee.

"As far as we know at present the local response is quite satisfactory and people are taking advantage of this loan to show their patriotism in a very effective manner," Mr. Henderson said last yesterday.

"People with comparatively small amounts in the bank—balances of a few hundred dollars—seem to be responding even more generously than last time. Their attitude seems to be that the Government might as well have the money to help win the war, and many of them are drawing out their savings and investing in the new war loan," he stated.

TANNED AND HARDY TROOPS
Many citizens lined the streets to watch and cheer the tanned and hardy troops, who marched in the broiling sun as their contribution towards stimulating the sale of the country's second war loan.

Under command of Lieut.-Col. J. R. Kingham, the long column was mostly made up of men of the 1st Battalion, the Canadian Scottish Regiment, which is being brigaded in the Third Canadian Division. Bringing up the rear of the parade was a contingent of the 1st Battalion, Irish Fusiliers, another C.A.S.F. unit.

In full marching order, officers and men alike in battle dress tie-troops made an imposing picture of health and strength as they paraded over Johnson Street bridge and marched along Government, Fort, Douglas and other city streets. The Scottish pipe band led the column, and the pipes and drums of the 2nd Battalion, Canadian Scottish, preceded the Fusiliers.

The Western Air Command's large Hudson bomber roared overhead as the troops reached the downtown area a few minutes after 2 p.m., and loan leaflets, shining like silver particles in the sun, fluttered to the ground.

Trailing the long line of khaki rumbled an R.C.A.S.C. truck, its sides placarded with signs exhorting the public to "do your bit to help Canada's war effort."

SHUTTLE SERVICE FOR ONE DAY ONLY

A shuttle service on the Uplands street car route, between the Uplands terminus and the Willows junction, will be effective on Wednesday from 12:03 noon. Passengers to and from the Uplands will make transfer at the Willows junction. This arrangement is for the above date only and will not affect the usual time schedule on the Uplands route. While this shuttle service is in operation, street cars with "8" and "11" signs will be routed directly over the Willows loop and will return from that point to the city.

COURT HEARS MURDER CASE

Preliminary Trial of R. A. Myles to Proceed in Esquimalt Today

Further evidence in a preliminary hearing of a charge against Ronald Albin Myles of the murder of his wife, Edith Alice Myles, on August 30, will be heard before Magistrate Henry C. Hall in the Esquimalt Municipal Hall council chamber at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Twelve witnesses were heard yesterday afternoon—G. H. Seder appeared for the prosecution; Stuart Henderson represented Myles.

Frederick G. Aldous, land surveyor, identified plans he made of the Myles dwelling at 1329 Esquimalt Road. William G. Hulbert, Vancouver, father of Mrs. Myles, testified.

SEE ACCUSED

Thomas D. L. Atwell told of seeing Myles in a beverage parlor at 5:45 o'clock on the afternoon of August 30. George A. Grivel recalled that the accused was in a called that the accused was in a at 7:35 o'clock.

Henry E. Abernethy testified that he saw Myles at the same place from 4:30 to 5:15 o'clock and from 8 to about 8:45 o'clock. Abernethy remembered that Myles had told him his marriage was just about washed up and that he was not going home.

William S. Ramsay gave evidence of seeing Myles leave a beverage parlor between 8:40 and 8:50 o'clock and turn into a house near a small store on Esquimalt Road.

George W. Candy said he saw Myles in the beverage parlor at 9:45 o'clock on the night of August 30 and again at 9:30 o'clock. He said Myles was not drunk.

ATTENDS CALL

Detective William Stark, Esquimalt police, said he was told by Chief H. W. V. Pecknold to proceed to 1329 Esquimalt Road at 10:20 o'clock on the night of August 30.

"I rang the bell and Myles opened the door. He was sober and seemed quite calm and unperturbed," testified the detective. "I asked if he had phoned the police, and he invited me in."

At this point, Mr. Henderson interjected: "You gave him no warning?"

Mr. Stark: "Myles made a voluntary statement. I asked him what the trouble was. He said 'My wife is lying on the floor.' I asked him what happened and he replied: 'I did it, sir.' I asked where she was and he motioned me toward the back of the house."

Stark testified he found Mrs. Myles' body lying on the kitchen floor. He then telephoned Chief Pecknold and later summoned Dr. J. S. McCullum.

EVIDENCE QUESTIONED

When Chief Pecknold who followed Stark was about to repeat voluntary statements made to him by the prisoner, Mr. Henderson elicited the admission that no warning was given accused until August 31.

"Voluntary statements given without warning and with nothing to prove they were made voluntarily should not be permitted in evidence," Mr. Henderson argued.

G. H. Seder, Esquimalt prosecutor, cited several authorities for admission of such evidence, and Magistrate Hall stood Chief Pecknold aside until tomorrow to give Mr. Henderson time to study the question.

Chief Pecknold said a man had telephoned him at 10:20 o'clock and he sent Detective Stark to the Myles home.

Dr. J. S. McCullum described reaching the Myles home at 10:25 o'clock. He found the body of Mrs. Myles clothed in a light dress and short coat. He noticed a small abrasion on the back of the left thumb and a bruise on the right side of the neck. He estimated that the woman had been dead for more than one hour.

URGES UNITY OF WORKERS

Two-Hour Debate Ends Admission of C.I.O. Delegates to Congress

TORONTO, Sept. 9 (CP).—Delegates to the annual convention of the All Canadian Congress of Labor here today ran into initial difficulties when soon after President A. R. Mosher had called for a united Labor Party to assist Canada's war effort, delegates protested against a report of the credentials committee admitting the Canadian unions of the Congress of Industrial Organizations to membership.

Members of original A.C.C. of L. unions objected to members of the C.I.O. being present at a meeting where their standing was to be discussed. The credentials committee report was accepted after two hours debate.

About 300 delegates from all parts of Canada are present for the four-day convention.

WOULD BE ENSLAVED

In his presidential address, Mr. Mosher said Canadian workers, because of lack of organization, have never been able to develop and exercise their economic and political power effectively. He warned that Canadian workers would be enslaved if the British Empire does not win the war.

During the debate on the admission of the Canadian C.I.O. unions to membership in the A.C.C., Silby Barrett, of Glace Bay, N.S., chairman of the Canadian C.I.O., said: "Our enemies want to see us divided as we have been in the past. We are here to unite Canadian workers and we must forget past prejudices."

CHARGES "CAMOUFLAGING"

Charles Beatty, vice-president of the A.C.C. of L., accused Barrett of "camouflaging" the issues in his attempt to get the C.I.O. into the Canadian organization. "I will do anything reasonable to unify labor in Canada, without assistance of foreigners from across the line," Mr. Mosher said. "These accusations are unfair and unreasonable." He said the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, of which he is president, would not have been in the A.C.C. if it had not been "kicked out" of the Trades and Labor Congress. The C.I.O. unions were in the same position.

SMITES HARD AT NAZI PORTS

stare of searchlights made the bombers' task hazardous.

HUGE FIRES STARTED

Two huge quayside fires, visible forty miles away, were started at Emden during Sunday night's raids by R.A.F. bombers. British pilots reported.

"The fires lit up the centre part of the town and it appeared that oil tanks had been set ablaze," one pilot said. "In the sky there was not so much a glow as a glare."

Describing the attack on the port the pilot said:

"We skirted Heligoland Bight, going into Emden from the northwest, and flew right across the right bank and the docks. They opened up at us (with anti-aircraft guns) as soon as we got there. It was all heavy stuff, not tracer bullets. It was a starlight night, very clear, and flashes from the guns lit up the dockyards."

RIGHT ALONG QUAY

"We couldn't bomb on our first run because we had to dodge, so we turned around, came back on a reciprocal course, let evasive action go hang for a bit and laid a stick of bombs right along the quay."

"Almost immediately we saw fires starting."

The Air Ministry News Service said the rear gunner of the same aircraft was in London on leave when fires started in the East End during the week-end raids and he described the Emden fires as "quite as big as anything I saw in London."

At the same time the bombing of barge concentrations along the German-held coast of France continued. These concentrations were broken up at Boulogne, Calais, and other ports near British objectives, bringing the R.A.F. losses in offensive action to thirteen.

One British pilot who participated in the attack on Hamburg said he made four separate attacks on the docks and then attacked the air-drome forty miles west of the city.

From fifty feet his rear gunner machine-gunned everything in sight while the anti-aircraft batteries blazed away.

Coming home the pilot encountered a heavy storm.

Some miles from the English coast, first one engine and then another cut out. The plane glided for some moments—then the engines picked up once more.

The pilot landed safely at an air-drome.

REPEATED HITS

Other pilots said they saw sticks of heavy bombs crash repeatedly across docks and port installations. The crew of one aircraft saw the wharves and railroad station on the north bank of the Elbe near Bakenhafen burning another fire near Hamshafen and the glow of a third downstream near Altona.

One of the early raiders who dropped a stick of bombs across docks saw two fires begin about 500 yards apart on the north bank close to the mouth of the Elbe Tunnel.

Still another raider who arrived a little later said: "As we entered the mouth of the Elbe and came down river, we could see anti-aircraft batteries firing hard."

"Some miles west of Hamburg we saw bombs landing on the dock area and a large fire."

By 11 p.m.—the clouds were low over the city. But the R.A.F. bombers continued to carry out their mission. Through breaks in the clouds they saw their bombs reach their targets.

The glare in the sky caused by fires was seen sixty miles away when the raiders headed for home.

DISPLAY WON BY VICTORIA

Entry of John Naysmith Adjudged Best of Five District Exhibits

JOHN NAYSMTIH

Marking his return to competition in the district exhibits, John Naysmith brought the Dr. S. F. Tolmie Trophy to Victoria as the displays were judged yesterday at the seventy-ninth annual Fall Fair at the Willows.

Langley was second, Burnaby third, Surrey fourth, and Ladysmith fifth. The Victoria display amassed a total of 6703 points. Langley earned 6377, and Burnaby had 6312. Surrey and Ladysmith earned 6467 and 6084, respectively.

With the trophy went a cash prize of $150. Second prize was $125, and the other awards were $100, and two each of $75.

It was a personal victory for Mr. Naysmith, who was defeated with the same display only last week in Vancouver by W. Mulford, who arranged the Langley exhibit.

THREE VICTORIES

The district display was not held at last year's exhibition. Previous to that it had been won three years in succession by Langley while Mr. Naysmith was visiting the Old Country. The Victoria entry had scored victories from 1933 to 1936, inclusive.

Typical of the detail and extreme care with which the various exhibits were worked out was a jar of preserved corn, which required a full day to prepare. The perfect specimen was canned for Mr. Naysmith by Mrs. Wiloughby, West Saanich Road, and her daughter. After cooking the cobs, the kernels were removed and placed in the jar so perfect that it gave the appearance that the cobs had been canned intact.

PROVINCIAL CREST

The winning exhibit had a centerpiece of honey in jars and combs on a revolving table. The setting was illustrated with silver spears and sprays of barley.

The Langley display featured the provincial crest executed in grain-colored red, white and blue. A large basket of grapes centred the display. A typical showing was made by the Ladysmith exhibit, this being the first time that the Up-Island city was represented in the exhibition.

C. Tice and W. R. Foster were the judges.

Radio Now Helping to Sell Pianos

Ten years ago radio threatened to destroy home interest in the piano, but now the picture has changed and radio programmes definitely stimulate the sale of pianos, according to G. B. Heintzman, vice-president of the well-known Toronto piano firm, in an interview here yesterday.

Visiting here on his twentieth annual business trip, Mr. Heintzman arrived in the city Sunday and spent the afternoon fishing in Saanich Arm. Yesterday he conferred with Fletcher Brothers' official Heintzman agents here.

"People listen to good music on the air," said Mr. Heintzman, "and the excellent programmes are creating a desire on the part of both children and adults for self-expression. We used to think of radio as a rival, but now the picture has changed."

New and smaller models had also helped the sale of pianos, he said, as well as the credits given in schools for music.

"The piano business is definitely on the up trend—it is better than last year," and prospects are very encouraging," Mr. Heintzman declared.

The piano executive left again for the Mainland by plane yesterday afternoon, after expressing his delight at once more enjoying a brief stay in Victoria.

Member of New Democracy Party Is Speaker Here

John Blackmore, M.P., spoke at the First Baptist Church last night under the auspices of the New Democracy movement here. The speaker was introduced by Major A. H. Jones, D.S.O., president of the Victoria branch.

Mr. Blackmore, who had spoken in Victoria some time previously, declared that the United States was running into debt at the rate of three billion dollars yearly. "This increasing debt," he said, "is slowly ruining the markets and purchasing ability of the people. The prime need for the future is markets and more markets for home produce."

The speaker said it was his conviction that Social Credit was the best solution to the unemployment and debt of the country.

Two Hospitals Hit by Bombs

HIT BY BOMBS

Bombs rocketed through Central London and the outlying districts. One bomb overturned a street car, but authorities said there were no casualties.

Other Districts Attacked

The Nazis also spread out over the Southeast, the Northeast and the Midlands areas of England in the sporadic pattern of earlier raids.

Already, in combatting an afternoon "feeler" raid on London, and in the early hours of the night onslaught, Britain's defenders destroyed forty-seven Nazi planes, one of them a big new four-engine "super-bomber" in a blood-chilling dogfight over the Houses of Parliament. Thirteen British planes were lost, but the pilots of three were safe.

Bombs fell over a wide area of Southwestern London.

It was estimated 350 raiders attacked the London area and Southwestern England in the first foray late last night, but only a small number reached the capital.

Big guns on the French Coast set up a new and heavier cannonading of the Dover area, and Britain's long-range guns replied in kind determined to defend at all costs that bridgehead of possible invasion.

DOWNED OVER PARLIAMENT

Thousands of Londoners, to whom the war has become ever-present, paused to watch the bomber downed over Parliament during a late-day alarm.

At Royal Air Force headquarters, air officials worked to find a solution which would counter the nocturnal attacks.

A high authority at the Air Ministry said that Britain assuredly would find an answer to the latest German menace of heavy night bombing.

Britons hoped for clear weather which would allow their hundreds of searchlights to spot the bombers for attack by R.A.F. pursuit planes. The last two nights have been cloudy.

Already hundreds of refugees have left the city for safety in the country. Other thousands are receiving aid for relief workers.

R.A.F. CANADIANS BAG TEN PLANES

The All-Canadians' bag was made up of three Dornier bombers, three Messerschmitt 110 fighter-bombers and four Messerschmitt 109's. Their score was better than one-fifth of the forty-seven German planes officially reported shot down today.

They came into contact with the enemy during the supper-time raid in which the Luftwaffe launched 350 aircraft at Southeast England and the London area.

The R.A.F. fighters, who were led by their English squadron leader, legless Douglas Bader, met the Nazis as they were approaching the south side of the Thames and chased them up the river. Thousands of Londoners returning home from work watched the twisting, diving planes in dogfights high in the sky.

BATTLE MESSERSCHMITTS Squadron Leader Ernest McNab's Royal Canadian Air Force fighters, who were on patrol duty Saturday and missed the fight in which 100 Germans hit the dust, had a heated scrap with a number of Messerschmitt 109's today.

They saw a number of enemy bombers flying at great height and climbed in their Hurricanes to attack them. On the way they lost sight of the first lot of bombers and found them in the middle of the German fighters which were heading south with a group of bombers beneath them.

The squadron leader chased one Messerschmitt down to the coast, followed it two miles out to sea and saw it a heavy going over, damaging it severely. Another Canadian pilot caught another Messerschmitt with a full blast and shot it to pieces.

MODERN BABIES TAKE FRUIT AND VEGETABLE THROUGH NIPPLE

Now Very Young Babies Can Get the Benefits of Vegetable Feedings

The success of this early feeding is made possible by the new process known as homogenization, which reduces solid foods to a form so smooth and fine that they may be fed through a nipple—and are easily digested by babies' digestive juices.

Recent results of laboratory and clinical tests is the recommendation by many doctors that homogenized vegetables and fruits be regularly included in the diets of babies as a protection against nutritional anemia.

Authoritative evidence that early feeding of homogenized fruits and vegetables is being carried out is welcomed by thousands of up-to-date Canadian mothers. And LIBBY'S of Chatham, Ontario—exclusive producers of Homogenized Baby Foods—have made available on written request a valuable, 23-page, illustrated booklet, entitled "Your Baby's First Vegetables and Fruits."

Little Stories for Bedtime

Sammy Jay Brings Lightfoot Word
By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Sammy Jay is one of those who believe in the wisdom of the old saying, "Early to bed and early to rise." Sammy needs no alarm clock to get him up early in the morning. He is awake as soon as it is light enough to see and wastes no time wishing he could sleep a little longer. His stomach wouldn't let him if he wanted to. Sammy always wakes up hungry. In this he is no different from all his feathered neighbors.

So the minute Sammy gets his eyes open he makes his toilet. For Sammy is very neat, and starts out to hunt for his breakfast. Long ago Sammy discovered that there is no safer time of day to visit the dooryards of those two-legged creatures called men, than very early in the morning. On this particular morning he had planned to fly over to Farmer Brown's dooryard, but at the last minute he changed his mind. Instead he flew over to the dooryard of another farm. It was so very early in the morning that Sammy didn't expect to find any body stirring, so you can guess how surprised he was when just as he came in sight of that dooryard he saw the door of the farmhouse open and a man step out.

Sammy stopped in the top of the nearest tree. "Now what is that man doing up so early as this?" muttered Sammy. Then he caught sight of something under the man's arm. He didn't have to look twice to know what it was. It was a gun. Yes, sir, it was a gun; a terrible gun. "Hoi!" exclaimed Sammy, and quite forgot that his stomach was empty. "Now, who can that fellow be after so early in the morning? I wonder if he is going over to the Big River after Mr. and Mrs. Quack or if he is going to the Old Pasture in search of Reddy Fox or if it is Mr. and Mrs. Grouse he hopes to kill? I think I'll sit right here and watch!"

So Sammy sat in the top of the tree and watched the hunter with the terrible gun. He saw him head straight for the Green Forest. "It's Mr. and Mrs. Grouse after all, I guess," thought Sammy. "If I knew just where they were I'd go over and warn them." But Sammy didn't know just where they were and he knew that if he might take him a long time to find them, so he once more began to think of breakfast, and then, right then, another thought popped into his head. He thought of Lightfoot the Deer.

Sammy watched the hunter enter the Green Forest, then he followed him. From the way the hunter moved Sammy decided that he wasn't thinking of Mr. and Mrs. Grouse. "It's Lightfoot the Deer sure as I live!" muttered Sammy. "He ought to be warned. He certainly ought to be warned. I know right where he is. I believe I'll warn him myself."

Sammy found Lightfoot right where he had expected to. "He's coming!" cried Sammy. "A hunter with a terrible gun is coming!"

What Today Means

"VIRGO"

If September 10 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a.m. until noon, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. and from 8 to 10 p.m. The danger periods are from 8 to 10 a.m., from 6 to 8 p.m. and from 10 p.m. until midnight.

Be careful how freely you indulge in generalities while conversing with chance acquaintances today, for tactless remarks are liable to lead to some very acrimonious discussions. Many surprisingly pleasant things seem to be destined to happen today, particularly some that will reflect an unusual amount of consideration being shown by persons who you may have judged were lacking in it. Minor changes in plans might have an upsetting effect on your ability to carry them out, so think twice before making any. Through being too impulsive many a person will find themselves in a position of having to offer an embarrassing number of excuses. Thoughtless delays are likely to be dangerous today, for people kept waiting are apt to get unreasonably angry and stubborn. This ought to be a good day for any form of trading, for the desire to buy or sell is apt to be very strong in the average individual. Two heads are much better than one when it comes to figuring any form of efficiency today, so do not hesitate to seek advice if there is any kind of a knotty problem confronting you. Married and engaged couples, and those on the threshold of an early betrothal, must display their good judgment today by saying neither too much nor too little.

If a woman and September 10 is your birthday, you should have a remarkable amount of endurance, plenty of ambition, and a desire to be in a position to enjoy the things that money will buy. Fortune is apt to favor you through your exhibiting indomitable courage and resourcefulness under the most trying circumstances. You ought to be very successful on the radio, screen, or stage, as well as a writer, teacher, business executive, artist, or broker. You should have no trouble in inspiring a man with love, loyalty, confidence, and a desire to help you make a complete success of your married life.

The child born on September 10 has usually the knack of doing anything it undertakes in a most satisfactory manner, with a comparative degree of ease. Instinctively most children born on this date are refined and dislike anything bordering on vulgarity. Little concern need be felt about their future, for as a rule they turn out to be very successful in any line of endeavor in which they engage.

If a man and September 10 is your birthday, you may believe in taking too many chances through an over-abundance of self-confidence. Be guided more by the judgment of other people and probably you will make fewer mistakes. As a chemist, lawyer, doctor, scientist, agriculturist, actor, journalist, author, banker, promoter, soldier, sailor, aviator, politician, manufacturer, or sales representative, you may do splendid work and get most gratifying results.

PLACE LARGE SHIP ORDERS

United States Navy Enters Into Contracts for Total of 201 Vessels

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP)—Announcing the largest contract awards in its history, the United States Navy placed orders today for 201 ships to cost a total of $3,861,053,312.

The department acted immediately after President Roosevelt signed at Hyde Park, the $251,000,000 defense appropriation measure on which Congress completed Congressional action Friday. The army also worked swiftly. It was said at Hyde Park War Department orders totaling $524,000,000 would be completed in a few days.

Along with the ship contracts, the Completion of these negotiations would bring the total amount of money involved in the current series to $4,900,000,000, they reported.

Almost all of the ships authorized by Congress to give the United States a two-ocean navy were covered in the contracts which went both to navy shipyards and private builders.

The time required to complete them, officials said, will vary from four to five years for battleships to one and one-half to two years for submarines. The ships ordered included seven battleships, to cost around $100,000,000 each, eight aircraft carriers to cost around $47,000,000 each, twenty-seven cruisers to cost around $30,000,000 each, 115 destroyers, forty-three submarines costing around $6,000,000 each, and one repair ship, cost of which was not disclosed immediately.

Group of Student Flyers Arrive on Transport Vessel

AN EASTERN CANADIAN PORT, Sept. 9 (CP)—A liner carrying about 300 trainees, who presumably will participate in the Empire Air Training Plan, arrived here today from Great Britain.

Only officials were permitted to board the ship, which apparently carried few other passengers, and newsmen were unable to learn whether the air force men came from the United Kingdom or from other parts of the Empire.

The first group of student flyers, arrived from overseas about three weeks ago.

LADIES PILOT SMART YACHTS

Mintaka, Kismet and Ishkoodah Win in Respective Classes on Sunday

It was Ladies' Day at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club on Sunday last. Star, dinghy and snipe class craft took part in the series of races arranged by the club over Cadboro Bay courses.

Sailing in light and variable breezes, lady skippers displayed considerable yachting finesse in handling their small vessels after making a time start at 3 p.m., the time set for the starting gun.

Mintaka, sailed by Mrs. W. T. M. Barrett, crossed the finishing line first in the star class, followed by Aquila, with Barbara Campbell at the helm.

Mrs. Gordon Campbell was the best lady skipper in the dinghy class, sailing Kismet, to victory; while the winning snipe, Ishkoodah, was piloted by Vera Gibbons.

The boats started at 3 p.m., and their finishing times were as follows: Stars—Mintaka (Mrs. Barrett), 4:05:45; Aquila (Barbara Campbell), 4:08:15; Dinghies—Kismet (Mrs. Gordon Campbell), 4:08:12; Guillemot (Mrs. W. The only son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Huot, of Armagh, Que., he was born in Quebec City and was twenty-three at the time of his death. He is survived by his widow, the former Betty Beaven, three sisters, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Huot, Chaudiere Station, Que.

The late young man played for hockey in Quebec for several years, and while in England acted as French interpreter.

Finished Second In Break Ending Of Outboard Race

JACKSON, Ga., Sept. 9 (AP)—George Guy, of Greenville, S.C., whizzed his tiny outboard craft into the last turn of the final lap of the class "C" races on Jackson Lake when the boat hit a wave and turned completely over.

Guy was tossed five or six feet in the air. The boat righted itself and Guy fell back into it in a correct position. Stunned and startled, but driving by instinct, the South Carolinian pulled the machine back into the course, raced his motor and finished second in the race yesterday.

I'LL WAIT FOR YOU

By MARGARET GORMAN NICHOLS
(Copyright, 1940, by Margaret Gorman Nichols)

CHAPTER XIX

"Not as much as I'm going to spoil you. Are you wondering how I managed? I had some extra money and the Government makes it fairly easy to buy a house these days. I thought we'd stay in the apartment this winter and build in the Spring. I'll get the plans in a couple of days and we'll go over them. It would have been more fun if I could have taken you out and shown you the house finished. But you wouldn't have had a hand in it and there are probably a hundred items you'd want that wouldn't occur to me."

Reaching across the table, he took her hand. The best for us. Nothing but the best. We haven't had it but we're going to have it."

"I didn't know it meant so much to you, Alan, having things—"

He frowned. "It does. Maybe I'm just beginning to see what I've missed, the luxuries, the things money will buy. I want my wife to have them. I can't give you a car, Carol. Nothing is going to stop me. At a luncheon the other day I sat next to a politician who made it pretty plain that I could be useful to him and he could be useful to me. The possibilities are unlimited if you keep your eyes open. You may be the Governor's lady."

Looking away, Carol kept her eyes on the red hat of a girl who was dancing. The Governor's lady, she thought, with a secret in her heart of an hour too wittily consumed, of a man's hand upon her shoulders and his mouth upon hers. Oh, Norman, the Governor's lady will follow you and Edwin on your merry, fortunate way through the newspapers, through gossip.

"You know I'm with you, Alan. In anything you do." Could she have told Alan that that hour had not been left so incomplete? Could she have told him even if Norman were not going to marry Edwin? Could she have heaped more bitterness and humiliation upon him? No. . . . Tonight, no matter the closer in her heart, she'd have come back to Alan and she'd have been loyal to a promise made many weeks ago.

Alan said, "Old Mr. Hartley asked for you today. Today was my monthly visit. He asked me what we'd like for a wedding present."

Old Mr. Hartley had been the owner of Newton's most lucrative hardware store and after his retirement, due to blindness, he had continued to live in rooms above the store and was cared for by a kindly colored servant. A frugal man and a bachelor, he had invested heavily and wisely in real estate and it was to Alan he had gone for help in handling his affairs when he could no longer see to read or write. Though Carol had not met him, he had become a very real person to her, for often she sensed that Alan's moodiness after a visit to Mr. Hartley was due to the old man's crossness and to the mental infirmities of old age.

"How was he today?" "He's getting very feeble and his mind is cloudy. Talks to himself and eats almost nothing. I'm afraid if he lives much longer he'll be a mental case."

"You've been very good to him and very patient with him. I doubt that anyone else would have bothered. He has no relatives, no heirs?"

After a slight pause, he said: "Some other attorney drew up his will. I don't know what's in it, of course. Probably an eccentric one. There's no telling. He has no relatives that I know of and he lives as if he didn't have a dime. I'll take you to see him sometime if you'd like to meet him."

"Maybe Rosie could fix something he'd like, something special."

He smiled. "Her special strawberry shortcake, for instance? Ready to go?"

"Where are we going?" "Out to see the good earth that belongs to me."

An hour later, by the light of a thin disc of moon, they stood at the side of the road looking at bare land and trees. Her hand gripping into his was an unspoken assurance that it would be as he wished it to be. The two of them, they would see a house beneath the trees; that in all the years to come she would stand beside him like this. A man, moment had come and gone and this was where she belonged here with Alan. In the end it would have been to Norman, not to Alan, that she would have said, "I can't marry you. A promise is a contract. I can't break it even if Norman loved her and Edwin Burke had never come back. And because tears whipped her eyes, she turned her head aside. She did not see Alan's face, stubborn, determined, flinging defiance across the hills. . . . She knew suddenly how tired she was and how much she wanted sleep to erase this day, bringing another day the same as previous days. To sleep, to forget and then awaken being the same person she had been yesterday. Carol, fiancée to Alan, secure and happy and unafraid. It had to be like that again. Oh, it had to be!

Edwin's black hair blew gaily in a playful wind. She and Norman had stopped for luncheon, were on the road again, and New York was no more than a hundred miles distant. Light-hearted and companionable, she had amused him with stories of her most innocent and amusing adventures, liking his deep hearty laugh and his keen enjoyment of a good story.

HIS NEW IDEA

The traveling piano salesman came home unexpectedly and found his wife in the arms of a stranger. "What's all this?" he roared to his wife. "Who is this man?" "Oh, hello, dear," the wife smiled. "I want you to meet Mr. Caruthers. He came here with the intention of buying a piano from your firm." "You don't say so!" howled the irate husband. "Then why should he be kissing you?" The wife shrugged. "I don't know," she murmured. "I suppose he changed his mind!"

ITALIAN BOMBING OF MALTA INEFFECTIVE

VALETTA, Malta, Sept. 9 (P.)—Persistent heavy air bombings of ancient Malta by Italians are proving ineffective, despite Italian claims that the island is virtually "in ruins."

A correspondent visiting the island aboard a destroyer during the reinforcement of the British Mediterranean fleet saw only one small building along the Grand Harbor demolished by a bomb.
